124 Edwards Road, Amamoor

MOTIVATED SELLER - IT'S ALL ABOUT THE VIEWS!

124 Edwards Rd, over 41 acres (16.79 ha) of fully-fenced mixed grazing land (suitable for 20+ cattle) with some private spots and amazing views. An internal driveway/track takes you from the front gate, past the shed, to the shack. And while this has a great northerly view, it's the second best view on the property.

The track continues to the property's highest point where the northerly view takes you to a whole new level, and you also have a southerly view ... it's amazing!

While considered to be a vacant lot, it does come with some building & service infrastructure!

- Just inside the front gate, you are greeted by "ye olde shed". If these walls could talk, I'm sure they would have a story to tell.
- Beside the shed is a water bore. A pipe connects this bore to a water tank on the property's highest point.
- The shack – an old Station Ticket Office. A quirky two-room weatherboard-clad building with a veranda on the front. While it's in need of some love, once restored it would make an interesting historical-addition to a new home precinct. It is in the right spot!
- A small storage shed behind the shack.
- Services include mains power on the block with evidence of power at the shack, the shed and the bore. There is a water tank associated with the water bore. A Telstra landline phone cable ends at the shack.

Edwards Rd is off Diamondfield Rd, between the villages of Kandanga & Amamoor. Number 124 is near the end of this "no-through-road", in a quiet
